An Intramural Sports Program Now Under Way

Tournaments to Be Held in Several Sports During Summer Quarter.—Basketball Games Start This Afternoon in Gymnasium.

A summer physical education program, embracing tournaments in a number of sports, is now under way at the college. Men are participating now in playground baseball, basketball, tennis, and horseshoes, and later there will be volleyball and swimming.

The first games of the basketball tournament will be played in the college gymnasium this afternoon. The first will be at 4:15 and the second at 5 o'clock. In the first game the Mules, captained by Lloyd Hollar, will meet the Pedagog, led by Coach Lawrence. The second game will be between Donald Berst's Headlights and Ray Ferguson's Pirates.

Tomorrow afternoon there will be two more games. The first will be between Donald Dowell's Bulldogs and Henry Iba and his bears, while the second will be between Will Smith's Lozenges and the Indians, led by Finley.

The first game this afternoon should be one of the drawing cards of the tournament, for Coach Lawrence's team is made up of faculty members. The director of athletics has announced that the following men will be on his squad: President Lamkin, Mr. Mape, Mr. Kettering, Mr. Seelman, Mr. Eek, and Mr. Wilson.

Playground baseball will start Monday afternoon with games between four of the eight teams entered in the tournament. There will be two games each Monday and Friday afternoons after school until each team in the league has played each other team.

On Tuesday and Thursday afternoons there are to be games in the basketball tournament, while students taking part in the tennis and horseshoe tournaments will play at their convenience, providing games in each round are completed by certain dates.

Coach Lawrence is now working on a faculty golf tournament. It is his plan to handicap the better players so that there will be more equality in the play. All members of the faculty who wish may take part in the tournament.

Late in the quarter there will be a basketball tournament, and at the last of the term there will be a swimming meet with six or eight events.

Faculty members are taking part in the playground baseball tournament. Each team is captained by some teacher. Mr. Eek has a team from the Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity, Mr. Kinnaid has one from the agriculture students, Mr. Kettering leads the Y. M. C. A., and Mr. Whiffen has an out-

Kappa Phi Plan Many Activities for Quarter

Trip to Omaha in July and Series of Appreciation Programs to Feature Home Ec. Group.

Kappa Omicron Phi, home economics sorority, at its first summer term meeting last Friday morning, discussed plans for its activities for the summer. The sorority plans to make a trip to Omaha sometime during the first of July and to visit places of interest, particularly those factories which are of interest to home economics students. A series of appreciation programs are also being planned for the summer to include such subjects as music, art, textiles, good manners, and the like. Plans for the summer entertainment and program are in charge of Mildred Davis and Mary Vogelgesang. The present officers of the sorority are: President, June Cozine; vice-president, Mary Summers; secretary, Freda Bennett; associate secretary, Susie Doebbeling; treasurer, Iola Dowden.

An interesting feature of the program last week was a talk by Miss Anthony on her trip to the University of Arizona at Tucson where she installed the seventh chapter of the sorority. The first chapter of the Kappa Omicron Phi was installed here five years ago and since that time six additional chapters have been installed at the following institutions: Central Missouri State Teachers College, Warrensburg; Kansas State Normal, Hayes, Kan.; Southeast Missouri State Teachers College, Cape Girardeau; Marshall College, Huntington, West Va.; and the Texas State College at Canyon, Texas.

8 Home Ec. Grads Are Attending T. C.

Eight alumnae from one department doing graduate work this summer in the same university is a record just established by the home economics department. Miss Anthony has been informed that eight graduates or her department will attend Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York City, to do work in their Master's degree.

All of them will either major or minor in some phase of home economics work. These eight alumnae are: Merle Ford, Florine Allen, Gladys Patton, Artie Hulet, Mabel Cook, Elizabeth Leet, Alice McMurtry, and Wave Hulet.

Seniors Triumph in Annual Play, Presented Twice

"Smilin' Through" Makes Name for Itself in Commencement Production.—Cast Well Chosen.—Miss Dow the Director.

There have been senior plays in connection with every commencement week at the college for many years, but there has never been a play which attracted as much favorable comment as Allan Langdon Mackie's famous "Smilin' Through," presented by the Class of 1927.

So good was this play that after being presented on May 21 as the opening event of graduation week it was again given on June 3 to inaugurate the entertainment program for the summer quarter.

Maybe it was because the cast was so well chosen; maybe it was because Miss Dow was the director; maybe it was because the scenery and lighting effects were so out of the ordinary. Or maybe it was because all of these things were combined. But certainly the play was a successful venture for the graduating class.

One might have picked stars from the cast, but to do so he would have had only the importance of the parts on which to base his judgment. Every student in the play carried his part in such a manner that the production bordered on professionalism, and that's saying the maximum for a college play. In choosing her cast, Miss Dow was fortunate in that so many members of the senior class had had a world of experience in college dramatics. She was able to pick students to fit the parts rather than to have to fit the parts to certain students.

The play was laid in a garden, and the time was just before and just after the World War. The scenery for "Smilin' Through" was made by the industrial arts and fine arts departments and the lighting effects were carried out by senior physics students.

The second presentation of the play was sponsored by the Student Council. Good houses greeted the cast on both nights.

Following are those who took part in the play:

Rita Fisher New Head of the Newman Club

Rita Fisher was elected president of the Newman Club for the summer session at the regular meeting of the club held last week. The other officers elected are: Vice-president, Bernard Conway; treasurer, Mary Rose Dugan; secretary, Marguerite Quilley, and reporter, Josephine Lautenbach.

A feature of the program was a talk by Miss Katherine Franklin on the advantages of the Catholic student of a club house in which members would always find a warm welcome.

1,150 Students Taking Work in Summer Quarter

All Available Class Room Taken as 187 Courses Are Given in Administration Building Daily.—No Figures Available on Conservatory.

Approximately eleven hundred and fifty students are taking work in departments of the college this summer. The enrollment cards in the office of Miss Hudson, registrar, show that 990 persons are taking work in the college and its high school department, and Miss Hudson has as yet no record on students who are studying exclusively in the College Conservatory of Music. Normally this number is close to 200, and because of this the estimated number of students is placed at more than eleven hundred.

One hundred and eighty-seven courses are being offered in the administration building alone each day. In addition to this, there are the classes given at the gymnasium and at the Conservatory.

Every classroom in the administration building is occupied for at least four of the seven periods each day. From 8:25 until noon each day there is not an available class room in the building, and at other hours practically all of the rooms are filled.

The majority of the students registered in one day, Tuesday, May 31. Freshman advisors and departmental chairmen were stationed at tables in the old library. Beginning early in the morning, there was a long line of students waiting to matriculate, and at 6 o'clock in the evening there were still many persons in the library and the halls.

So great was the rush at the door of Mr. Rickenbrode's office that it was necessary to pass out numbers and admit but ten persons at a time.

Social Science Club Holds Mixer Meeting

The first meeting of the Social Science Club held last week was a get acquainted meeting for those enrolled this summer. The first thing on the program following the business was a report on what the club had been doing during the year by Homer Needles. Mr. Wallin gave an explanation of the Bell prize, what its purposes are and how to win it. Mr. Foster explained to the club the Pi Gamma Mu, the National Honorary Social Science Fraternity, its purposes and activities. He also told the club of Wm. Utter, a former student and graduate of this college, who is now a professor at the Ohio State University. After the program all the new members were asked to give their names and what they had been doing. After adjournment, the club enjoyed a social hour of refreshments and of getting acquainted.

Carolina Students Here.
George Pack and his sister, Mary Lee Pack of Concord, N. C., are attending the college this summer, being attracted here by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Blomfield, S. T. C. graduate who taught at Concord the past year. Both are enrolled in the Conservatory of Music and are specializing in public school music. Another Carolinian, Luther Blackwelder, has been in school here the past year.

C. A. Linberg, International Hero, Was a "Whiz" in English Composition at College

"Linberg, C. A., English composition, 'A'" appeared on the outside of one of the hundreds of freshmen composition papers at the University of Wisconsin in 1921, when they were returned to the class. The paper created little notice at the time except with the professor in charge of the course, but recently has been brought to light in the avalanche of "I knew him when" stories concerning the same C. A. Linberg after he completed his epochal non-stop air flight across the Atlantic.

This particular story was so good that the professor, R. F. Brosius, now of New York University, thought enough of it to tell it on himself to a reporter for the Chicago Daily News. In 1921 he was teaching at the University of Wisconsin and had Linberg in his class. Linberg, it seems, was a fairly poor speller and had great difficulty with punctuation. Somehow

Dangerous Dan Cupid, always busy this time of the year, has scored several telling shots among former students of S. T. C. and each day the "casualty" list grows. The list of "victims" up to the present time, as far as could be learned by the Northwest Missourian, include the following:

Irene Lowry Married.
Irene Lowry, B. S. '25, and Tower queen of the annual that year, was married May 14 but announced this week, to Richard Wright of Martinsville, Mo. Mrs. Wright has been teaching at Martinsville for the past two years. They will make their home in Martinsville.

Carl Canaday
Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Mary Lois Carl of Maryville and Guy Canaday of Albany, both graduates of S. T. C. The wedding will take place at Albany Thursday of this week.

Billup Vanscoy
Mary Illene Billups of Ridgeway, a former student here, and Carl Vanscoy of Maryville were married in Ridgeway Saturday June 11 and will make their home in Maryville.

Vanscoy-Trusty
About the same time the above ceremony was being performed in Ridgeway, a sister of the groom was being married in Maryville. Esther Mable Vanscoy and Cleo Trusty of Pickering were married in Maryville and expect to make their home at Pickering. Both are former students of S. T. C.

Helen Sealock Married
Word has been received in Maryville of the wedding of Helen Sealock of Trenton, a former student here who was enrolled for the short course, to Wilard Payne, also of Trenton. Payne is also a former student of the college.

Creamer-Trotzke
Mildred Creamer of Osborn, a former student, and Henry A. Trotzke, also of Osborn, were married in St. Joseph last week.

Housemothers of Maryville Aiding School, Dean Says

Problems of Women in Whose Houses Girls Stay Thrashed Out at Regular Meeting Held Last Wednesday.—Social Hour Afterward.

"Co-operation between householders of Maryville and the administration of the college is one of the greatest features of the approved house system," Dean Barnard told more than a hundred house mothers at a meeting held in the college auditorium last Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting, a regular affair each quarter, was one of the most beneficial ever held, Miss Barnard said. She spoke highly of the interest displayed by the women of Maryville, and of the fact that they all reflected an interest in the girls in their homes and a desire to co-operate with the school.

"Education is not a mere matter of book knowledge," the dean said. "We must learn to live together, all working on the same big job—making worthier citizens of the state."

"The house mother must think of the girl in her home as a future mother and homemaker. Women of Maryville have a great opportunity to do social work in this unsettled period by showing the girls what true home life is."

"It is our common charge to teach these girls to be real mothers or teacher mothers."

Since many of the women at the meeting Wednesday are experiencing for the first time this summer having women students in their homes, the college regulations on the matter were gone over thoroughly. The meeting resolved itself into a round-table discussion at the juncture, and many problems were brought before the body. The housing matter was studied from several angles, and at the conclusion of the meeting several women expressed the belief that the session was the most profitable ever held.

Following the business meeting Elizabeth Mills, a graduate of the spring class, gave a piano and vocal solo. The women then visited the new library, where punch was served by Mildred Omar and Julia Caldwell.

Student Council to Seat New Members

First Meeting of Student Governing Body to Be Held Thursday Evening.

The first regular meeting of the Student Council for the summer quarter will be held Thursday evening in the Recreation Room at 7:30 at which time the new members elected temporarily for the summer will be seated. The new members are Rebecca Briggs, representing the junior class and Hazel Brown and Roy D. Ferguson from the sophomore class.

The Council will publish this summer a new edition of the Student Handbook. Work on this project has already been started. Suggestions for the improvement of the Student Handbook would be gladly accepted from both students and faculty members. Let the Council know just what you would like to have the handbook contain. Give your suggestions to any member of the Council and they will be considered.

Y. M. Gospel Team Plans Busy Summer

The Y. M. C. A. has organized a gospel team for the summer term and has been at work for the past two weeks getting in readiness to conduct meetings in Nodaway County and Northwest Missouri for the remainder of the summer. The team is being coached by Mr. Kettering and expects to conduct its first meeting Sunday. The following eight men comprise the team: Forrest Shaffer, Claude Shaffer, Clifford Evans, Donald Russell, Gerald Carroll, Clyde Rowland, Earl Wyman, and Homer Needles.

Dr. Curtis Tells State Physical Education Plan

Missouri Director Stresses Starting of Training in Early Life.—Speaks at Assembly Last Wednesday Morning.

Reasonable development of the muscular and vital systems, proper motor coordinations, a development of a psychological attitude towards games that will create a desire to continue with them after school days, a positive health-building program and a development of type of beauty which "won't wear off," were given by Dr. Henry S. Curtis, state physical education director in his talk in Assembly last week as the main points in Missouri's physical education program.

"The best training for adult citizenship is child training on the playground," Doctor Curtis said.

"Early habits are hard to break," he continued. "It is hard to teach honesty, courtesy, and fairness in high school and college in the world of business if these have not been taught in early childhood. The playground is the ideal place to inculcate such ideals in the minds of youth."

Doctor Curtis laid such emphasis upon teaching the kinds of games in school which the student could continue to play after his school days. Among these he urged swimming, tennis, soccer, and particularly volleyball ball, which can be played in the backyard. He told of the increasing need of games for exercise for children because 60 per cent of our population is in towns of over 2,500 and they do not have the wood to saw and farms to work on which their fathers had. Child labor laws in many states, which prohibit children under fourteen years working, have increased the problem of providing healthy exercise.

Doctor Curtis is a strong supporter of athletics and a physical education program in high schools and colleges but he believes such a program should start in the elementary schools, where it is most needed. A child's interests are chiefly motor, he says. It learns by imitation an dis a veritable dynamo of activity and energy. The worst thing we can do, he thinks, is to make children be still for long periods of time, for that is the one thing which they can't do and many children have broken down because of enforced inhibition of their natural desire for activity.

Dramatic Club to Present Play Soon

Fifty Students Have Signed Up To Participate in Dramatic Activities This Summer Under Mr. Kettering.

Fifty students have already signed up for the Dramatic Club this summer and rehearsal work has started on two plays under the direction of Mr. Kettering. "Who's a Coward," the first of these two plays is a thirteen minute one-act farce, and will be given at Assembly June 22. The cast of characters are: Jimmy, the husband, Mr. Kettering; Bessie, his wife, Dorothy England; Dappy, a real burglar, Orval Adams. Rehearsals for "The Best Medicine," "Countess Kate," and "The Deserter," will begin soon.

Mr. Kettering plans to lecture to the club this summer at various times on available material for high school plays and different contests.

The club will meet every two weeks according to present plans. At the present time there is a shortage of men in the club to take male parts and all men interested in dramatics are asked to see Mr. Kettering.

20 Notebooks in Vitalized Agr. District Contest

Judges to Be Selected Soon, and Prizes Will Be Awarded About July 1. Mr. Cooper Announces.—First Prize is $100.

Twenty-eight vitalized agriculture notebooks, the work of as many rural school students of Northwest Missouri, have been entered in the fourth annual vitalized agriculture notebook contest conducted under the direction of Mr. Cooper. Within the next two or three weeks judges will be selected to choose the best book and the winners will be announced and prizes awarded about the first of July. The first prize of $100 in gold has been given each year by C. J. Colden of Los Angeles, a former editor and business man of Maryville, who has been interested in this work for a good many years. The second prize will be "The Book of Rural Life," valued at $79.50 and is given by C. D. Bellows and Sons, prominent Shorthorn breeders of Nodaway County.

The first prize last year was won by Elmo William Miller of Bogard and second prize of $50 offered by the Farmers Trust Co. was won by Margaret Courtney of Jameson. John F. Case, editor of the Missouri Ruralist, and president of the State Board of Agriculture, was final judge of the notebooks last year and came to Maryville to make the awards in person. This year the winning students will be asked to come to Maryville to receive their prizes.

The rules for the contests this year are similar to those of the past. The contest has been open to pupils regularly enrolled in one-room country schools, who have not completed the eighth grade. The books were to contain sections on geography, agriculture, health, arithmetic, home economics, English, art, and spelling, all to be done in practical projects. Among these was to be a survey of the livestock in the pupil's district, an interview with the owner of the best livestock farm in the district as to kind of feed, cost per head, etc. The home economics features included a hot lunch menu and a page on good table manners. The English, art, and spelling grading is to be based on the general use of these in the whole book.

The following are the pupils who have entered the contests and their schools: Margarette Avery, Big Oak School, Trenton; Kathryn Axtell, Spickard; Elizabeth Burns, Harmon School, Barnard; Ruby L. Cotton, Burr Oak School, Forest City; Pearl Cotton, Burr Oak School, Forest City; Madeline Cook, Homer School, Mound City; Margaret Courtney, Barnett School, Jameson. Zelma Cole, Mayflower School, Rock Port; Ioland Deardorff, Herron School, Maryville; Jesse Griffey, Herron School, Maryville; Cleota Hamann, White Dove School, Stewartville; Harriet Hickman, P. Valley, Ridgeway.

Leah Mary Hill, Smith School, Princeton; Pearl Howard, Westboro; Irene Komer, Herron School, Maryville; Marie Lyons, Herron School, Maryville; Dorothy Lyons, Herron School, Maryville; Gladys Marks, White Dove School, Stewartville; Irene Mitchell, Spickard.

J. P. McCoy, Excelsior School, Jameson; Ruth Reese, King Grove School, Skidmore; Helen Rowland, Smith School, Princeton; Hazel Smith, Zimmerman School, Martinsville; Ethel Thompson, Barnett School, Gallatin; Romonia Thompson, Barnett School, Gallatin; Lucile Vette, Westboro.

Science and Math Club Attracts 22 Members

Twenty-two members were present at the first summer meeting of the Mathematics and Science Club which met last week. Sam Urban was elected president for the summer and the following other officers were chosen: Vice-president, Jesse Michaelson; secretary-treasurer, Lucille Knecht; sergeant-at-arms, Lois Roper.

Pi Omega Pi Head Re-elected
Clara Wilson was re-elected president of the Pi Omega Pi, commerce fraternity, at the meeting last week. George Newman was chosen vice-president and Lucretia Trumbull was named treasurer. The club is planning various activities for the summer and a picnic has been tentatively scheduled for this week.

COLLEGE OATH
"We will never bring disgrace to this, our College, by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the College. We will reverse and obey the College laws and do our best to insure a like respect and reverence in others. We will transmit this College to those who come after us, greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

the series of the form A, B and C, criticized the saint.

"I am 40 years old," protested the other. "In my day such punctuation was correct."

"We are progressive," snapped St. Peter. "Everything within our jurisdiction is entirely up to date." He continued reading, "My relations with the profiteers and grafters were problematical."

"Entire lack of coherence," asserted the saint.

"If it please your saintship, the conditions themselves were incoherent, impossible of solution."

"No matter, it was your business to clear them up." For a few minutes he read in silence, then exclaimed:

"Bromide, not even chlorin tainted! -You have written, 'I have endeavored always to see myself as others see me.' That idea is as old as time."

"But," protested the mortal, "there is nothing new under the sun. How am I to avoid such material?"

"You are obliged to see things from a different angle, to seek a new point of view, as it were!"

Sentence Stirs the Saint

"Then the saint came upon this sentence: 'The question of inherent right, and which I had expounded for weeks, was still a puzzle to them.' St. Peter mopped the perspiration which oozed beneath his halo. See Wooley, he snarled.

"I am not acquainted with Mr. Wooley," explained the mortal, meekly.

"No matter," retorted the saint, "you ought to be." The book is for sale by the C. D. Heath company, Boston, New York and Chicago, and is used by many institutions of note."

"Followed silence for half an hour while the shadows lengthened beyond the golden portals. Now and then the minister caught glimpses of the happy throng within and heard faint sweet melodies from distant harps. He pondered. He knew that his work on earth had been well done, but so confident had he been that he paid little attention to the grammatical form of his passport. Now as he watched heaven's doorkeeper, his doubts accumulated.

Sighs as He Gives Verdict.

"Some excellent touches," murmured the saint. "Good atmosphere." Again silence while the saint finished the last page. Then with a sigh he returned the passport. Slowly shaking his head, he gave the verdict:

"A pity to permit so many minor mechanical errors to bar good material from eternal commendation. You are not permitted to pass on."

"Bewildered but rebellious, the mortal began his downward journey. 'And to think,' he hurled back at St. Peter, 'that my brother is a professor of English at Yale.'"

"Another case of need, answered the saint, 'where practical help from one's relatives reaches the vanishing point.'"

About forty couples attended the M Club dance given last Friday evening at the gymnasium. The arrangements were in charge of Ted Search and Eugene Wilson. Music was furnished by a seven piece orchestra and refreshments were served. The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Beattie, Mr. and Mrs. Will Montgomery.

fit from his industrial arts department. The other teams are led by Mr. Solomon, Coach Lawrence, Mr. Mapel, and Mr. Withington.

When outlining the summer program, Coach Lawrence spoke of the hours when the pool in the new gymnasium may be used. It is open for women students in the mornings, with the exception of the 10:15 hour on Wednesday. Men may use the pool from 2 to 5 p. m. daily. No hours have as yet been arranged for night swimming. Mr. Lawrence said that if there was a demand for student nights, they would be arranged. He also said that if sufficient number of townspeople wanted to use the pool at night that probably that might be arranged.

Aside from the men who will play on the teams captained by Mr. Kinnaid, Mr. Eek, Mr. Whiffen, and Mr. Kettering, the following have signed for the playground baseball tournament:

Nine men have signed for the volley ball tournament. This will not be played until the others are completed, however, so there will likely be many others on the list.

Lon Chaney, in a Different Role, Here This Week

Popular Star, Minus All Facial Make-Up, Plays Hard-Boiled Top Outter in "Tell It To the Marines."

A popular picture of a popular star in a role different from most of his of the past is the entertainment menu to be offered at the College auditorium this week when Lon Chaney will be seen in his romantic comedy of "Tell It to the Marines." Those who saw Chaney in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," or "Mr. Wu," will want to see this picture, especially in view of the fact that he uses no grotesque makeup but displays his "natural pulchritude" as a hard-boiled top sergeant O'Hara of the Marines. Playing opposite Chaney is the popular and likeable Eleanor Boardman in the role of Norma Dale, commissioned Navy nurse.

The picture will be shown at 7:30 Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights, preceded by a Collegian comedy. Admission will be 35c and minor coupons will be honored at the door.

The plot revolves around "Skeet" Burns, played by William Haines, a race track follower, who made a gesture of joining the Marines to go to San Diego on government transportation so he could hop to Tia Juana. General Tucker of the Marines, traveling on the same train in Mufti, taken into Skeet's confidence on the joke, tipped Sergeant O'Hara, but Skeet gave O'Hara the slip and got away as he had planned.

Skeet returned from Tia Juana in a few days, penniless and hungry. He hovered about the Marine Base, and at last made the plunge. O'Hara was waiting for him. Until he had taken his oath Skeet was treated with consideration which should have warned him, but it did not. After that he was "In the Marines" and under O'Hara's special care, and he never had a chance to forget it.

Skeet took a fancy to Norma Dale, a commissioned Navy nurse, and despite their difference in rank, despite Skeet's really rough work, he forced the girl's interest. He went to the brig for some of his rough stuff but before he went to sea she had listened to his avowal of love and had told him that he might hope.

There was a hard tour of duty in a native Philippine village, guarding a store of oil, and Skeet nearly fell for a native girl of many bloods. The men had been forbidden to associate with the native women, but in a moment of pique Skeet disobeyed. He was revolted by the girl, and sought to escape from her, but was set upon by her friends. O'Hara discovered the visit and followed. He helped Skeet fight off the angry natives, and then knocked Skeet silly for his disobedience.

Norma and Skeet met in Shanghai, but the story of Skeet's troubles over the native girl had come to Norma's ears, and the affair was broken off for the time being. When they had separated in a huff, each longed for the other again, but Norma was suddenly ordered to Hangchow for a wholesale vaccination, and they did not meet. Skeet blamed his misfortune on O'Hara and offered to fight. News came that the Hangchow party was in danger, and Skeet was sent to his quarters in arrest till O'Hara might have more time to tend to him and his case.

O'Hara released Skeet from arrest so he might join in the fighting, and Skeet was grateful. When the Marines rescued the beleaguered whites Skeet marched directly behind the cart which carried Norma. Each affected not to see the other for a time, but at last they called greetings just as Skeet's squad was halted to occupy a bridge and hold the hand in check. O'Hara was wounded in the fighting, but he gloried in Skeet's work, for he knew he had made a man and a Marine of him.

Skeet left the service after his hitch, for he had a fine opening in civil life. He had room to take O'Hara with him, but the old sergeant was determined to stick to the Corps he loved.

Again Skeet met Norma and she promised to come to him, after her hitch was done, to the home Skeet would have ready for her. This time Norma did not hurry the embrace and kiss.

Department Doings

Commerce

An interesting feature of the work in the commerce department for the summer session will be a field trip to St. Joseph, some time during the next two or three weeks. It is the plan of Mr. Eek to visit at least six big firms in St. Joseph to include probably a telephone company, a shoe factory, the Western Tablet Co., and one of the banks. The trip will be made possible through the courtesy and auspices of the St. Joseph Chamber of Commerce. All students now enrolled in the commerce department will take this trip and all former students in the department will be eligible to make the trip providing they notify Mr. Eek within the next week or so.

French

Large and interesting classes are reported in the French department. Two advanced classes in the history of French literature are being offered, two double courses in beginning French and two courses in intermediate French.

English

A study of the enrollment in the English department this quarter reveals a heavier enrollment in the advanced courses than in the past summer sessions. This undoubtedly indicates that high school teachers are progressing towards filling the new state teaching requirements and have worked off most of the underclass English requirements. Two new teachers, Miss Crabtree and Miss Best are in the English department this summer to care for the increased number of students. Miss Bowman is on a leave of absence this summer attending the University of Kansas.

Art

The art department has forty students enrolled this summer who are majoring or minoring in art and who are looking forward to teaching the subject. The Art Club has been organized for the summer and about thirty-five members enjoyed a picnic last Thursday at the Country Club. The committee which planned the picnic was composed of Elsie Saville, Vada Cliser, and Tillie Houts.

In looking forward to the opening of public schools in the fall and with the view of aiding teachers in the teaching of art Miss DeLuce will contribute a series of articles to the Missourian on timely subjects on art particularly adapted to the teaching of art in the public schools. Special emphasis will be given to suggestions for materials and directions for lessons designed to help rural and elementary teachers. If desired an open forum column will be instituted for teachers who want to ask any questions. Miss DeLuce also expects any teachers to send in specimens of the best art work done in their schools.

Industrial Arts

The industrial arts department is one of the busiest parts of the College this summer. This department has been growing rapidly since last fall, and this summer about 125 students are taking work in the twelve courses which are given.

Much credit for the growth of the department is due Mr. Whiffon, who came to Maryville last fall. His personal interest in all of the students who have worked with him has been a factor in the increasing popularity of the industrial arts work.

This summer three courses are being given in mechanical drawing, three in cabinet making, one in theory, one combination course in cabinet work and wood turning, and one each in rural handwork, primary handwork, basket-ry, and sheet metal work.

Three instructors are handling the work this summer. Mr. Coleman is assisting Mr. Whiffon with the shop work and the drawing, and Miss Fisher is in charge of the handwork and basketry courses. Miss Fisher has fifty-nine students, Mr. Coleman has twenty, and Mr. Whiffon has about forty-five.

President Lamkin Gives Address.

President Lamkin went to Kansas City Tuesday of last week where he gave the commencement address to 130 graduates of the Teachers' College in the Central Junior High School there. More than 1,600 people were present at the commencement exercises.

Coffer-Millers Give Two Plays Of Merit Here

"She Stoops to Conquer" and "Love in Livery" Form Part of Entertainment Program for the Summer Quarter.

Students of the College and townspeople of Maryville received a rare treat last Monday and Tuesday nights when the Coffer-Miller players, a company of professional actors from Chicago, appeared in plays in the College auditorium. On Monday night the company presented Oliver Goldsmith's famous play, "She Stoops to Conquer," and on Tuesday night Maribeu's "Love in Livery" was given.

To say that the Coffer-Miller players presented two entertaining plays would be putting it mildly. If the remainder of the summer entertainment program can reach the standard set by the numbers last week, it certainly will be a series long to be remembered. The play on Monday night was probably the more popular of the two. Most persons are more familiar with Goldsmith's play than with the one presented on Tuesday night. The acting in both was excellent, with Jess Coffer and Martha Miller, who is in reality Mrs. Jess Coffer, drawing the maximum of applause. These two persons are a play company by themselves, and students of the College will look forward to seeing them again.

The Coffer-Miller players are now on a tour of the country, playing at large university summer sessions. A close friendship between President Lamkin of the College and Mr. and Mrs. Coffer made the rates here possible. The College head was once on the same daily program of the Redpath-Vawter Chautauqua Co., with Mr. and Mrs. Coffer, and last week was the second time that he has been able to bring their company to Maryville.

Five years ago the Coffer-Miller players were in Maryville for a four-play engagement. At that time they delighted the summer students with their acting.

Mr. Cook's Brother Promoted.

Mr. Cook of the history department has received word that his brother, E. Ova Cook has been elected superintendent of the Idaho Industrial Training School at St. Anthony, Idaho. Mr. Cook has been connected with this school for the past ten years and for the last few years has been assistant superintendent. He has been teaching in Idaho for the past twenty-five years and prior to that time taught in Nodaway County and Northwest Missouri.

Adrian Farrar, B. S. '26 and Lucile Best, B. S. '26 are back in school this summer taking special work.

Both majored in home economics and have been teaching the past year.

Donald Berst to Rock Port

Donald Berst, popular S. T. C. football and basketball star for the past two years, who finishes this summer for his degree, will teach science and mathematics in the Rock Port High School for the coming year.

Another college alumnus, Eugene Dixon, has been re-elected principal and instructor of social sciences in the same school for the coming year.

Kathryn and Georgia Keplar of Pattonsburg, former students here, visited at the College last week. Kathryn will teach at Pattonsburg next year and Georgia will teach in the high school at Raymore, Mo.

Miss Miriam Gray, B. S. '25, who has been teaching art in the Grand Island, (Nebr.) High School the past year, is enrolled in school this summer taking special work.

Y. W. Hears of Ideals of the College Girl

A talk on "Ideals of College Girls," by Miss Katherine Kraken was the feature number of the Y. W. C. A. weekly program last week. A special musical program was given and devotional was led by Helen White.

About fifty girls attended the first summer meeting of the Y. W. held June 7 on the campus west of the main building. Devotional services were led by Christine Wagner and the social activities by Dorothea Cook. Singing by the members which included the Y. W. song and some "pop" songs was led by Dorothy England. Refreshments were served.

The Y. W. girls are anxious to make their work this summer even more successful than it has been in the past and extend a cordial welcome to all women students of the College.

Lillian Steinman, instructor in foreign languages in the Sidney, Mont. High School is attending S. T. C. this summer. She was accompanied from Sidney by her mother, whose home is in Albany.

When a Man Fails

When he has no confidence in himself or his fellow men.

When he values success more than character or self-support.

When he does not try to make his work a little better each day.

When he becomes so absorbed in his work that he cannot say that life is better than work.

When he values wealth above health, self-respect, and the good opinion of others.

When he is burdened by his business that he finds no time for rest or recreation.

When he loves his own plans and interests more than humanity. When he knows he is in the wrong but is afraid to admit it.

When he envies others because they have more ability, talent, or wealth than he has.

Ikey and Pat were wounded in an engagement in the Argonne. A priest making his round found them. After giving the Irishman the last rites he went over to Ikey and asked, "Do you believe in the Father, Son and the Holy Ghost?"

Ikey groaned and rolled over. "Oi, Oi. Here I am dying and you ask me riddles."

Ultra Conservative

A spinster living in a Chicago suburb was shocked at the language used by two men repairing telegraph wires close to her house.

She wrote to the company on the matter, and the foreman was asked to report.

This he did in the following way:

"Me and Bill Fairweather were on this job. I was up the telegraph pole, and accidentally let the hot lead fall on Bill. It went down his neck. Then he said: 'You really must be more careful, Harry.'"

For hours they had been together on her front porch. The moon cast its tender gleam down on the young and handsome couple who sat strangely far apart. He sighed. She sighed. Finally:

"I wish I had money, dear," he said.

Impulsively, she slipped her hand into his; then, rising, she sped into the house.

Against he looked at his hand. In his palm lay a nickel.

SPORTS

Unhappy Lot

A gridiron hero's lot is not a happy one. Like senators, prima donnas and movie stars, he must sacrifice his personal inclination to his large and admiring public. And to a man who takes his college seriously this sacrifice is one not made without serious injury to his intellectual conscience.

Jefferson D. Burris, Jr., for three years an end on the University of Wisconsin football team and now a captain of the crew has written a pamphlet setting forth the studious athlete's complaints about football, and his proposals for a better system. "I love athletics," he insists. "I love the virility, the manliness, the thrill, the nerve, . . . but I could enjoy them more if certain outstanding and inherent evils were abolished."

Football is an insatiable mistress, Burris complains. "Who ever heard of trying to study hard during a football season?" he demands. The athlete is ingenious in his methods for preventing studies from interfering with his education. "After the season is over, notebooks are copied, outlines studied.

When a person is studying for marks rather than knowledge it's hard to know what to bother with and what to omit."

After the season the relentless coach issues a call for winter football, followed by spring practice. Basketball and certain other sports are just as exacting. Any sport a collegian enters into becomes a profession with him. During an athlete's college days much more attention is given to his sport than to any subject or any semester of subjects in his college course.

How change football? Replace freshmen and sophomore gym with compulsory sports, Burris advises. Limit intercollegiate competition to Juniors and Seniors. Limit each sport to its season. Limit daily practice for each sport to two hours. Limit each student to one inter-collegiate sport. And finally, give student and faculty greater control of athletics.

The Burris proposals are published in pamphlet form by the Wisconsin Union.

This is the first systematic reform proposal to come from a football player.
